Religious Liberty group defends veterans memorial against 'bully' trying to remove Bible from display

A Bible at the center of a dispute between two military organizations will now be displayed prominently at a veterans hospital.

It was placed in a memorial but moved after objections by Mikey Weinstein, the founder of Military Religious Freedom Foundation (MRFF). The Bible ended up behind a glass display case.

First Liberty Institute, the same law firm that argued on behalf of the Bladensburg "Peace Cross" memorial in front of the Supreme Court last week, sent a letter Wednesday supporting the Bible.

"As usual Mikey Weinstein is wrong on the fact and wrong on the law but that's never stopped him from bullying military and VA officials and their facilities across the country," Mike Berry, the First Liberty lawyer representing the Northeast POW/MIA Network, told Fox News. "If he wants to remove that display or any part of it he's going to have to come through us."

Berry said VA policy clearly permits a Bible to be on display.

But Weinstein disagrees.

"That is still a Christian Bible," Weinstein said. "It is still promoting -- particularly in the surrounding aspect of the POW-MIA remembrance, one of the most sacred things you could do in the military -- one faith over another faith."

STATEMENT

MRFF APPLAUDS
RIDER UNIVERSITY'S STANCE
AGAINST CHICK-fil-A

Wednesday, March 6, 2019

The Military Religious Freedom Foundation (MRFF) applauds Rider University's stand against Chick-fil-A's LGBT+ discrimination.

By removing Chick-fil-A as a restaurant possibility on its campus, Rider University in New Jersey, a civilian college, shows the courage that the U.S. Air Force Academy, a military institution, couldn't.

MRFF insisted that the same standard of equality be upheld at the United States Air Force Academy by demanding that a senior executive from Chick-fil-A not be invited to speak at their National Character & Leadership Symposium (NCLS).

However, USAFA did not have the guts to stand up against Chick-fil-A's LGBT+ discrimination by inviting Rodney Bullard, Vice President of Corporate Social Responsibility for Chick-fil-A, Inc. and Executive Director of the Chick-fil-A Foundation.

A Christian Dean at Rider University taking the drastic action of resigning due to Chick-fil-A's removal from Rider's campus restaurant possibilities, shows how thoroughly entwined Chick-fil-A is with Fundamentalist Christianity.

If only the United States Air Force Academy had the same principles of equality as Rider University.
