Friday, March 1, 2019

(Excerpts from FoxNews/Emphasis added by MRFF)

A Bible at the center of a Manchester VA Medical Center display has been targeted by an outside group for being "intolerable" and "unconstitutional."

The VA then moved it to a display case, but Mikey Weinstein, the founder of MRFF, complained again, calling it even more objectionable.

[...]

VA officials said in a statement that they "consulted with appropriate legal counsel before placing this treasured WWII artifact, which happens to be a Bible, with the display and is confident that this does not impinge on Constitutional protections."

But Weinstein disagrees.

"That is still a Christian Bible," Weinstein said. "It is still promoting -- particularly in the surrounding aspect of the POW-MIA remembrance, one of the most sacred things you could do in the military -- one faith over another faith."

'Military Religious Freedom Foundation' objects to POW's Bible being put on display at a VA hospital

Friday, March 1, 2019

(Excerpts from Hide Out Now/Emphasis added by MRFF)

Two veterans groups are fighting against each other over whether or not a Bible carried by a World War II prisoner of war may be displayed at the Manchester VA hospital in New Hampshire.

According to Mikey Weinstein of the Military Religious Freedom Foundation, his organization received complaints from 14 veterans who felt that having a Bible on display in the VA hospital was clear a violation of the separation between church and state.

"If there are people going to the VA who aren't comfortable with that display, and are intimidated to speak up for fear of retribution at the place they're going for psychological and physical healing, well, excuse my French, but it's effing bullshit," Weinstein added.

[...]

The MRFF says it isn't backing down, either. Weinstein's response to Jones' comments was "tell it to the judge," saying his organization is ready to take the issue to court.

Mr. Micky Weinstein and the MRFF,

I just wanted to remind you all for the record that if it wasn't for the Grace of Christians in this country jews like you and your MRFF would not even be allowed to live here.

Perhaps it would be good if you remembered that as you continue to attack only the followers of the Son of God.

Why do you all attack a simple Bible being displayed for the comfort of our honored veterans at their hospital in New Hampshire?

Fun fact—did you know that jews like you all have been kicked out of 115 countries in this world for your meddling complaining and your betraying. (Sorry but that kind of tells the tale about your brood. You bring this on yourselves by your war on Jesus.)

Don't make the United States become #116 to get rid of your tribe.

Learn your place. Don't bite the hands or try the patience of Christians who tolerate you.

Mr. Weinstein and the MRFF are ungrateful and need to shut their bagel holes!

Praise The Lord Jesus Christ and His Gospel!

Bonnie,

How can you be so blinded by evil? It clogs your brain cells robbing them of knowledge, understanding, history, and morality leaving behind only a cold dead shell inside someone whose heart barely beats.

The Torah given to Moses served as the basis for everything good that America was founded on and has stood for since 1776. Yet, now your cold dead soul wants to tear the commandments of G-d from the hands of those who are His duty bound servants; members of the US military.

May the G-d of Abraham, Isaac, and Joseph forgive and cleanse your wretched soul in His fire to purify you back to sanity and holiness.

Shalom,

The display of a soldiers Bible from when they we're a P.O.W. is a totally acceptable display.

It is not forcing any individual to walk the Lord's path.

Just saw what you deranged people are trying to do with a WWII Bible on display in Virginia. I have fought for this country as did my Father ,his Father and most of my family. I am 8th generation in America and can clearly see your organization is a problem with a self serving agenda. You are, as other organizations and people are trying to do is deny American Citizens the Freedom of Choice, Religion and the ability to pursue a good life for ourselves, family and friends. You have NO right to tell me or any one else what we can see and do. It is clear that you feel threatened by any one that doesn't believe in your perverse agenda. You are no better then the terrorists that kill and destroy in the name of their religion and beliefs. If you do not like the Bible on display.. DON'T LOOK AT IT !!! You people are sick and need to look at your own lives before judging others.

To: MRFF
Subject: POWs

Dear POG,

I'm a devout anti-Christian every bit as much as you are, and I find your pedantic attacks on religious symbols justified if somewhat absurd. I know they must have brutalized you in unimaginable ways for not being one of them when you sorta served, and your anger is probably righteous about that. Having said that, having at least passively agreed with your crusade against Christians in uniform, I have to say, demanding a POW's Bible be removed from a display about POW's is a new low even for you. I know you were never a POW, nor was I, but I wonder if you've ever had the honor of knowing any? One of the great privileges and honors of my life was to be considered a friend by gentleman who was shot down over occupied France in 1944 and captured. He was the most deeply faithful AND patriotic man I've ever had the privilege of knowing. He was captured and tortured by the Gestapo and spent two years starving in a POW camp. What kept him alive was his faith. Now, I may not agree with his faith, it's not my fantasy novel any more than it is your fantasy novel any more than is a Tolkien novel, but it was what kept him strong and alive in circumstances you and I can barely imagine, much less been forced to endure. Just as you attempt to speak eloquently about the symbol of our flag, you have to recognize the symbolic power of a POW's limited number of belongings, whether a Bible, a Crucifix, a Star of David, the American flag, or a damn harmonica, those symbols kept them going. You are being incredibly presumptuous (as always) in assuming displaying a symbol of resilience is the same thing as advocating for a religion. Grow the fuck up. Stop being a pussy. Get over the fact that the mean old Christians you served with didn't like you. It wasn't your religion that made them hate you; it's your constant pussified whining that makes even those of us who agree with you disgusted by your pretend claims of victimhood. Don't disrespect POWs. You have not earned that right, POG. Contemptuously,

"Sickening"

Subject: Sickening

Good morning:

I read an article about your attempt to have removed, a Bible, from a WW2 memorial at a VA, and was appalled, sickened by your radical position. As a disabled veteran, I am offended. This is history! It is evident this is just an excuse to promote your radical ideology and diminish the countries heroes of something that he/she cherished at that time!

Secondly, what is next? Removal of every single artifact, of history in this country, disgraceful! Such divisiveness! This country was founded on such principles of faith, while it may not be mine or those you say you represent, or yours, but's it's a reality!

The sad piece, for me is that this is the part of history you would like to erase, shame on you!

Subject: Bible in missing POW memorial

Your organization has recently filed a complaint about a Bible being displayed in a missing POW memorial in Manchester NH. This is the most unconscionable action that I have ever heard of. It is obvious that this Bible helped one of our finest military veterans get through the most difficult time in his life and the religious freedom granted to all U.S. citizens by our Constitution is being violated by your small minority organization.

The liberalized Democratic movement across this country has gotten too far out of hand and your action is just one more sign of this.

I am extremely appalled by your action and if continued, not only will the congress of New Hampshire receive my belief, but every U.S. congressman, every news organization, and even the President of the U.S. will receive this memo.

I hope to shut you down as you are an embarrassment to all of the men and women who have ever served our country.

Subject: Buying a Brick?

Members of MRFF,

You have said that it is "intolerable" and "unconstitutional" for a bible to be displayed at a memorial. Well, to that I say you all are very intolerable to me and my family. With you asking for money to supposedly protect service members from something that is already protected, you are therefore running a scam. You are running a con on the US military and people that support the military. I'm ashamed and embarrassed that there are people like you all trying to make money this way. The first amendment already protects religious freedom for all. If you did a little research you would discover that there are many faiths in the military today. Even the chaplains now must be trained in how to perform services for all the faiths that are represented in the military. And with that, I believe that you are running a scam to simply make money.

So I put it to you that you all are intolerable and unconstitutional. You are intolerable because you have offended me and millions of military veterans with this scam, and you are unconstitutional because you are running a con on the American people with this “buying a brick” ruse. You should be ashamed of yourselves for wanting to have this bible removed from this display. I’ll bet if it was a koran you would not even give it a second thought.

I’m praying for your salvation through Jesus Christ.

Hello
I just read an article in the villages daily sun stating that a World War II bible had to be removed from a va hospital because of your religious beliefs
That is your believe from your organizations.
What about about others people’s beliefs.
Some religion you are
You don’t care about us
I read that the origination was founded in 2005
Well after WWII
You wrote what you believe is gospel with no consideration for anyone else
If we had not won WWII we would be speaking German Japan’s or Italian
Think about that and your religious believes would be out the window
From an a ancestry that had relatives that fought in the revolutionary war which we won
We all could be speaking with a British accent
Not very happy about what you did

There are many religions but only one true God, the Lord God of Abraham Issac and Jacob. The others are false God's who are made by man yet you give them the same status. Someday you will see the God of Israel and you will have to face the damage you have done.
