MRFF FOUNDER MIKEY WEINSTEIN TAKES ON WHITE SUPREMACIST

Trump has changed the game permanently. Trump has enabled people to no longer be afraid to say what they think. People are awake and taking action. They won't be silenced and bullied anymore and that is refreshing. I only hope that we keep this momentum going because this is only the beginning of the retaking of America.

The New Hampshire Nationalists website, which has since been taken down, featured a swastika, arguably the premier symbol of hate in the world. The swastika was made up of four "T's" and paid homage to President Donald Trump for his enabling and game changing behavior.

"Military Religious Freedom Foundation President Mikey Weinstein has reported white supremacist Ryan J. Murdough to law enforcement authorities after receiving an abusive email in response to the MRFF's action against Jesus Candy being sold in military retail stores."

Identifying himself as "the Founder and President of New Hampshire Nationalists" in his email, Murdough said of his group, "We stand up for the interests of White people in New Hampshire."

Telling Mikey Weinstein that he had heard a podcast about the MRFF's opposition to religious-themed candy being peddled on military bases, Murdough went on to write, "Since Jews are only 2% of the U.S. population and a fraction of the U.S. military, do you think you might be happier living in Israel? Goyim are getting a bit sick and tired of Jewish behavior and we think you would be happier living there instead of the U.S."

The anti-Semitic email was received on Tuesday, January 7th. Research on Murdough and his organization revealed that the New Hampshire Nationalists may have been behind the alleged intimidation of New Hampshire residents who attended a workforce diversity forum in 2018.

The New Hampshire Nationalists website, which has since been taken down, featured a swastika, arguably the premier symbol of hate in the world. The swastika was made up of four "T's" and paid homage to President Donald Trump for his enabling and game changing behavior.

"Trump has enabled people to no longer be afraid to say what they think," the swastika meme asserts. "They won't be silenced and bullied anymore and that is refreshing. I only hope that we keep this momentum going as this is only the beginning of the retaking of America."

Within 24 hours of receiving the email, Mikey Weinstein contacted local law enforcement authorities to report what he considered a threat.

Email sent to MRFF from the Founder and President of New Hampshire Nationalists White Supremacist Ryan J. Murdough

"Your Organization"

My name is Ryan J. Murdough. I am the Founder and President of New Hampshire Nationalists. We stand up for the interests of White people in New Hampshire.

I was listening to 'Fash the Nation' today and I heard about your battle against 'Jesus candy' on U.S. bases.

MRFF'S INBOX

"Thanks from Active Duty Military Officer"

Dear Mikey:

I am writing today to thank you and your organization for helping to help maintain the wall of separation of church and state in the military.

You have been in my mind of late, with the publicity you have had with some of your recent victories. Your organization has been protecting the rights of all soldiers to worship freely and without preferential treatment in the US military for years.

I was raised a Christian myself. But as a military member, I am also aware that that there are many world views. We all have the freedom to worship as we like, and not be exposed to blatant Christian proselytizing at every corner as you have sometimes been asked to fight across America's military institutions.

In fact, in 2012 you helped me with an issue where the Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) was promoting Christian merchandise in their shop on a base in Kuwait! It was quickly ended by your actions.

I most recently contacted you about another incident on a base in Europe. Once again, in context of such diversity of beliefs in Europe, only Christian literature was prominently displayed at a common area where all military members and civilians could not miss it! You had to look over the material to speak with anyone at the desk it was placed at.

Within an hour of contacting you by email, you invited me to contact you personally on the phone. You spoke of your experience in dealing with similar issues in the past. You gave me the perfect advice to begin to settle this issue in a nonconfrontational way, that appeals to some of the fundamental Army values we profess to share as soldiers. I think it is a great approach.

I wanted to thank you for time, expertise and your past and present help that you give thousands of soldiers across the branches.

I'll let you know how it goes..

Sincere thanks, and best of luck. I'll keep watching for you in the news. I cheer every time I see you!

"Thank You"

Dear Mikey,

Thank you and Military Religious Freedom Foundation for the efforts put forth to ensure that the military community remains free of religious proselytizing.

I was raised a Christian and was a born-again evangelical Christian for 40 years. I understand how important faith can be to individuals, yet I am also aware that promoting religion by the government is unconstitutional. Its divisiveness pressures those who do not hold the same beliefs to either go along with the majority or be excluded, feeling alone with no place to turn.

Some may think these cases are overblown and no big deal, but just taking a look at the MRFF's Inbox will show just how big a deal it really is, and what an individual faces if they dare to take a stand on their own.

So, thank you again to everyone on the Military Religious Freedom Foundation team for your hard work, dedication, professionalism, expertise and effectiveness in resolving these important issues. You are greatly appreciated!

Sincerely,
(name withheld)
